

Consideration regarding possibility of utilizing certification of disability support category in certification of disability related to disability pension

TANAKA Kenichi

Abstract

This article considers the possibility of utilizing the certification of disability support category in the certification of disability related to disability pension, based not only on a legal perspective but also on a practical perspective. Firstly, it describes the outline and problems regarding the certification of disability related to disability pension and regarding the certification of disability support category. Secondly, it describes the significance and problems of utilizing the certification of disability support category in the certification of disability related to disability pension.

Keywords

Disability pension, disability grade table, disability certification standard, disability certification procedure, certification of disability support category